factors precluding the mental state required for the commission of the crime in question.² In other words, a defendant may be convicted of solicitation even though the person solicited could not be guilty of (specify the crime solicited).

2. That the defendant did so with the intent that (specify) engage in that conduct.

Therefore, if you find that the People have proven beyond a reasonable doubt both of those elements, you must find the defendant guilty of the crime of Criminal Solicitation in the Second Degree as charged in the _____ count.

On the other hand, if you find that the People have not proven beyond a reasonable doubt either one or both of those elements, you must find the defendant not guilty of the crime of Criminal Solicitation in the Second Degree as charged in the _____ count.
