NOTICE TO THE BAR

Effective April 4, 2019, the Court of Appeals has appointed Cara J. Brousseau as the State Reporter, succeeding William J. Hooks in that position. The State Reporter is responsible for all operations of the New York State Law Reporting Bureau, which publishes decisions of the appellate courts of New York, and selects and publishes noteworthy decisions of the trial level courts. The Law Reporting Bureau produces over 17 bound volumes each year, as well as weekly advance sheets and maintains a public access website containing a collection of judicial decisions and related legal research tools.

Ms. Brousseau has been admitted to practice law in New York since 1999 and has extensive public service experience. Before being appointed State Reporter, she served as Deputy State Reporter, New York State Law Reporting Bureau; Assistant State Reporter, New York State Law Reporting Bureau; Deputy Executive Director and Counsel, New York State Board of Law Examiners; and Law Clerk to Hon. Susan P. Read, Associate Judge, New York State Court of Appeals. Ms. Brousseau has a Master of Public Administration from Rockefeller College at the University of Albany and a Juris Doctor from Albany Law School.
