How to File a Request for Judicial Intervention

Note: All persons involved in a lawsuit should consult an attorney. This office gives you information, forms and instructions on court procedures. As an office of this court, we cannot give legal advice or act as your advocate.

Although a lawsuit is in existence upon filing with the County Clerk of a summons with notice or summons and complaint, or, in the case of a special proceeding, a petition and notice of petition or order to show cause, the matter has not yet entered the court system and is not known to the court. This will happen only when a party files a "Request for Judicial Intervention Form" (referred to as a RJI), pays the fee, and asks the court to take some immediate action in regard to the matter.

A special proceeding, because of its particular nature, will have to come into court promptly. However, a civil action brought on by summons with notice or summons and complaint can proceed for a considerable time, even for years, before judicial intervention becomes necessary and before the case is actually in the court. The initial documents in a civil action, the complaint and the answer, set the frame of the dispute; some additional action is required to bring that dispute to a head, or to put the plaintiff to his or her proof before the court or a jury. In contrast with the practice in Federal and other courts, in New York cases are litigated between the parties until some sort of dispute arises or the case otherwise requires action by a judge. Only then does the case come into court. The RJI is the mechanism that leads to the assignment of a Justice to the case. This is done randomly. Once the case is assigned, all future proceedings in the case take place in front of the same Justice (unless the Justice leaves the court or is reassigned to a different category of cases).

A point at which many cases first come before the court is upon the making of certain kinds of motions, such as a motion to dismiss or a motion for summary judgment. (A motion is a form of application within a case for some form of relief. The kinds of motions available are set forth in the Civil Practice Law and Rules). A case may also come into court if a party wishes a conference before the Justice for the purpose of setting dates for the completion of information exchange (called "discovery"). If the case does not come before the court for these reasons, the plaintiff may, at an appropriate time, cause the case to be placed on the trial calendar. Until the case is placed on the trial calendar, it can never be called for trial.

However the case first comes to court, a RJI is required to be filed at the first appearance of the case in court. Only one RJI is filed in a case.

A party wishing to file a RJI must have some purpose for which the intervention of a Justice is required. The principal purposes are to obtain a conference, to make a motion, to bring on a special proceeding, and to place the case on the trial calendar. Each of these objectives requires the filing of a paper or papers. Before the court can accept such filing, the applicant must present a RJI. The form must be completed and signed by the filing party.

A copy must be served upon all other parties to the case with the papers to which the RJI relates. The RJI must be paid for in the cashier's office of the County Clerk (Room 160). The cost for a RJI is $95. The County Clerk will issue a receipt for the RJI. This, together with an original and a copy of the RJI itself, must be presented to the back office of the court in which the applicant's papers are to be filed.
