Dignity in Schools Campaign (DSC)

- Challenges the systemic problem of pushout and advocates for the human right of every young person to education and dignity
- 74 organizations from 22 states:
 - Youth and parent base-building
 - Legal and advocacy
 - Teachers and educators
 - Researchers

DSC Model Code

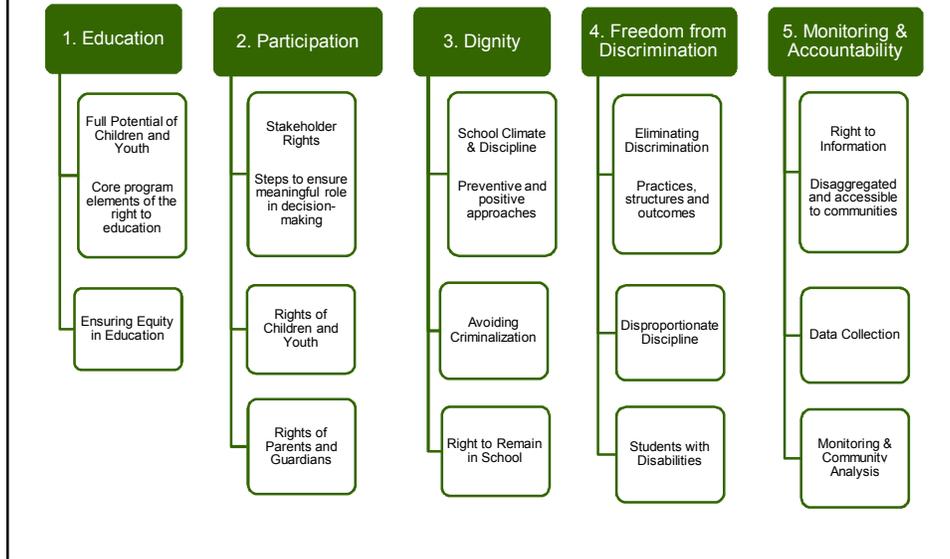

- Model policies for schools, districts and legislators to address school pushout and create safe and positive climates for learning
- Based on research, best practices and on the ground experiences of students, parents and educators
- Rooted in fundamental human rights principle that the goal of education is to develop each young person to their full potential

How was the Model Code developed?

- Drafted and reviewed by members of the Model Code Working Group
- Reviewed at two American Bar Association summits
- Reviewed and edited at community engagement sessions with students, parents and teachers in 8 different states (CA, FL, GA, IL, LA, MS, NY, PA)

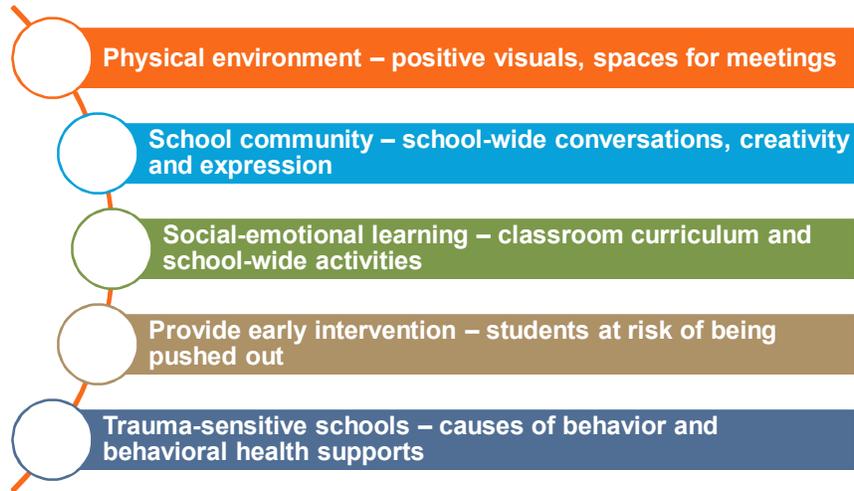

5 Chapters of the Model Code

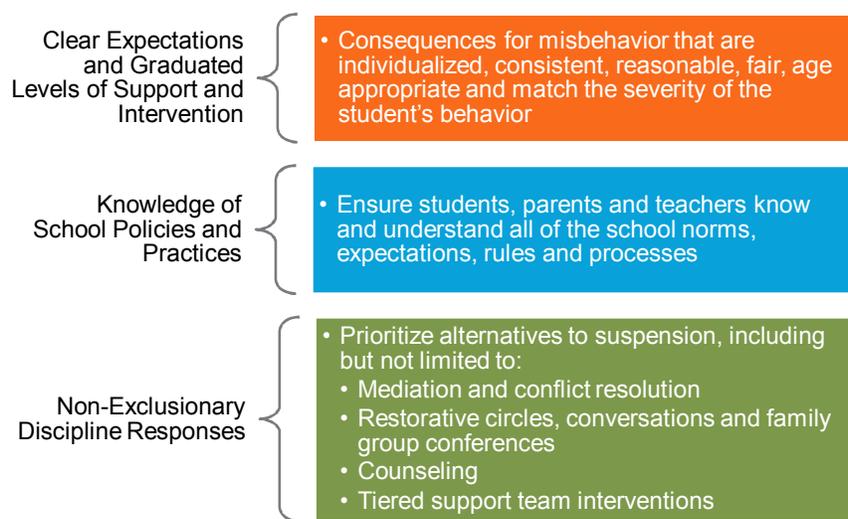

Ch 3.1.a Key Elements of Positive Discipline (pg. 21)

- Human Rights Goal:
School discipline policies shall be aimed at creating a positive school climate, supporting the social and emotional development of students and teaching non-violence and respect for everyone in the school community.
- Recommended Language:
States, districts and schools shall adopt evidence-based, school-wide, preventive and positive discipline policies that are developed with participation of students, parents or guardians, educators and other stakeholders.

1. Establish Positive School Climate

2. Adopt a Positive Approach to Discipline

3. Limits on Exclusionary Discipline

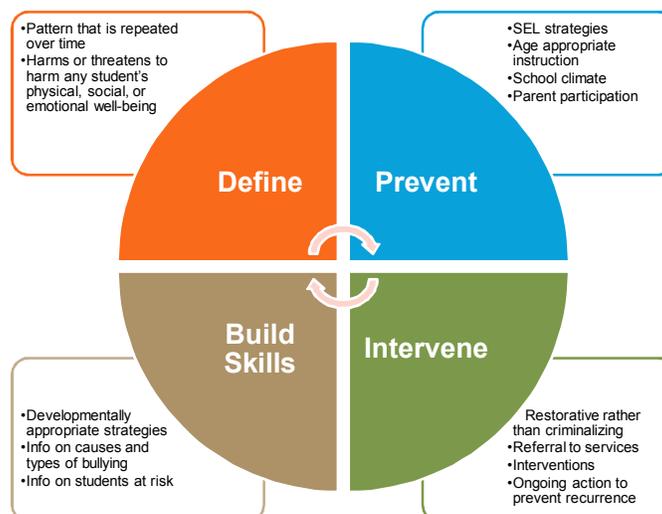

Limit Suspension and Expulsion

- Only the most serious offenses
- Only after non-exclusionary discipline alternatives have been carefully considered, tried and documented
- Only after it is determined that exclusion from school is absolutely necessary to protect the safety of the school community

End Zero-tolerance Policies

- Revise state laws, district Codes of Conduct and school discipline policies to eliminate any mandates for suspension or expulsion for specific offenses
- (Except where mandated by federal law)

4. Prevention and Response to Bullying Behavior

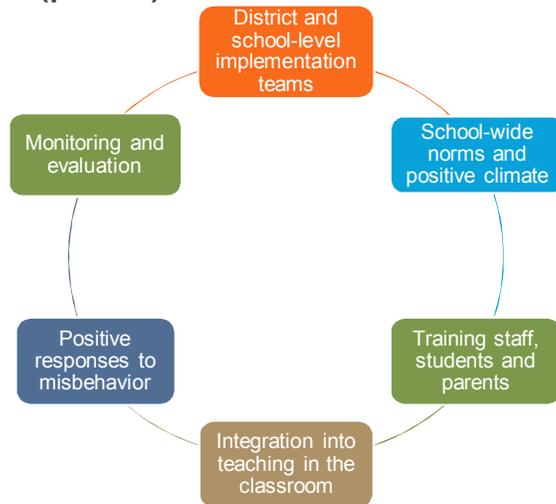

Ch 3.1.b Examples of Two Model Policies (p. 26)

Two models that can be used together:

- Positive Behavior Interventions and Supports (SWPBIS)
- Restorative Practices

Six key implementation guidelines for any positive model

Ch 3.1.c Guidelines for Exclusion (pg. 34)

Exclusion from school only for the most serious offenses

Factors to consider prior to exclusion (full list in the code):

- disciplinary history, academic history, what interventions have been tried
- severity of the offense, whether was acting in self-defense
- family situation, mental health and special needs

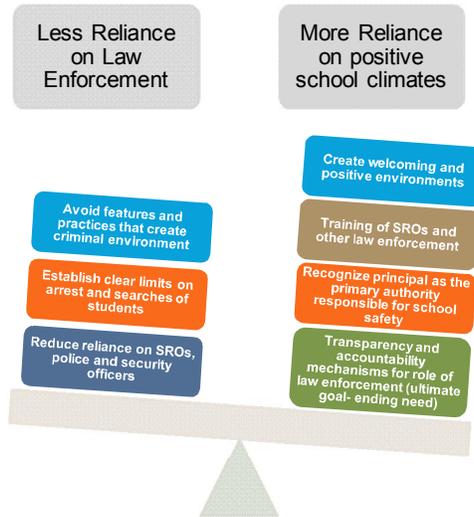

Right to remain in school and receive equivalent education services

No suspension more than 5 days in a row, or 10 days total in a year

Suspension shall be prohibited for minor misbehavior:

- Being late to school or class or being absent
- Violating school dress code or uniform rules
- Insubordination, defiance, disobedience, disrespect, or disruptive or rowdy behavior,
- Behavior that happens off of school grounds and not as part of school-sponsored activity

3.2 Avoiding Criminalization in School Discipline

Ch 4.2 Eliminating Disproportionate Discipline (pg. 66)

District-Level Climate and Behavior Committee – data, planning, monitoring

Culturally responsive classroom management

- physical classroom, norms, communication, family engagement
- community dialogues at the beginning of each year and throughout
- professional development to understand and address staff biases

Revise Codes of Conduct, eliminate suspensions for subjective behaviors

Safe spaces for LGBTQ students – policies, trainings, interventions, services

School Climate and Behavior Leadership Teams – track data, adjust practice

Student grievance procedure – biased or disproportionate practices

Using the Model Code

-  Identify which sections of the Code are most relevant to your community or school
-  Compare the Model Code to the existing law or policy
-  Use “recommended language” from the Code to help shape policy changes
-  Use guidelines in the Model Code to assist with implementation
