Upon the foregoing papers it is ordered that this motion by defendants for summary judgment dismissing the complaint of plaintiff, Orlando Garcia-Aquirre pursuant to CPLR 3212, on the ground that plaintiff has not sustained a serious injury within the meaning of the Insurance Law § 5102(d) is decided as follows:

This action arises out of an automobile accident that occurred on October 13, 2008. Defendants have submitted proof in admissible form in support of the motion for summary judgment. Defendants submitted, inter alia, affirmed reports from an independent examining orthopedic surgeon and an independent evaluating radiologist, and plaintiff's own verified bill of particulars.

APPLICABLE LAW

Under the "no-fault" law, in order to maintain an action for personal injury, a plaintiff must establish that a "serious injury" has been sustained (Licari v. Elliot, 57 NY2d 230 [1982]). The proponent of a motion for summary judgment must tender sufficient evidence to show the absence of any material issue of fact and the right to judgment as a matter of law (Alvarez v. Prospect Hospital, 68 NY2d 320 [1986]; Winegrad v. New York Univ. Medical Center, 64 NY2d 851 [1985]). In the present action, the burden rests on defendants to establish, by the submission of evidentiary proof in admissible form, that plaintiff has not suffered a "serious injury" (Lowe v. Bennett, 122 AD2d 728 [1st Dept 1986], affd, 69 NY2d 701, 512 NYS2d 364 [1986]). When a defendant's motion is sufficient to raise the issue of whether a "serious injury" has been sustained, the burden shifts and it is then incumbent upon the plaintiff to produce prima facie evidence in admissible form to support the claim of serious injury (Licari v. Elliot, supra; Lopez v. Senatore, 65 NY2d 1017 [1985]).

In support of a claim that plaintiff has not sustained a serious injury, a defendant may rely either on the sworn statements of the defendant's examining physician or the unsworn reports of plaintiff's examining physician (Paqano v. Kingsbury, 182 AD2d 268 [2d Dept 1992]). Once the burden shifts, it is incumbent upon plaintiff, in opposition to defendant's motion, to submit proof of serious injury in "admissible form". Unsworn reports of plaintiff's examining doctor or chiropractor will not be sufficient to defeat a motion for summary judgment (Grasso v. Angerami, 79 NY2d 813 [1991]). Thus, a medical affirmation or affidavit which is based on a physician's personal examination and observations of plaintiff, is an acceptable method to provide a doctor's opinion regarding the existence and extent of a plaintiff's serious injury (O'Sullivan v. Atrium Bus Co., 246 AD2d 418 [1st Dept 1998]). Unsworn MRI reports are not competent evidence unless both sides rely on those reports (Gonzalez v. Vasquez, 301 AD2d 438 [1st Dept 2003]; Ayzen v. Melendez, 749 NYS2d 445 [2d Dept 2002]). However, in order to be sufficient to establish a prima facie case of serious physical injury the affirmation or affidavit must contain medical findings, which are based on the physician's own examination, tests and observations and review of the record rather than manifesting only the plaintiff's subjective complaints. It must be noted that a chiropractor is not one of the persons authorized by the CPLR to provide a statement by affirmation, and thus, for a chiropractor, only an affidavit containing the requisite findings will suffice (see, CPLR 2106; Pichardo v. Blum, 267 AD2d 441 [2d Dept 1999]; Feintuch v. Grella, 209 AD2d 377 [2d Dept 2003]).

In any event, the findings, which must be submitted in a competent statement under oath (or affirmation, when permitted) must demonstrate that plaintiff sustained at least one of the categories of "serious injury" as enumerated in Insurance Law § 5102(d) (Marquez v. New York City Transit Authority, 259 AD2d 261 [1st Dept 1999]; Tompkins v. Budnick, 236 AD2d 708 [3d Dept 1997]; Parker v. DeFontaine, 231 AD2d 412 [1st Dept 1996]; DiLeo v. Blumberg, 250 AD2d 364 [1st Dept 1998]). For example, in Parker, supra, it was held that a medical affidavit, which demonstrated that the plaintiff's threshold motion limitations were objectively measured and observed by the physician, was sufficient to establish that plaintiff has suffered a "serious injury" within the meaning of that term as set forth in Article 51 of the Insurance Law. In other words, "[a] physician's observation as to actual limitations qualifies as objective evidence since it is based on the physician's own examinations." Furthermore, in the absence of objective medical evidence in admissible form of serious injury, plaintiff's self-serving affidavit is insufficient to raise a triable issue of fact (Fisher v. Williams, 289 AD2d 288 [2d Dept 2001]).

DISCUSSION

A. Defendants established a prima facie case that plaintiff did not suffer a "serious injury" as defined in Section 5102(d).

The affirmed report of defendants' independent examining orthopedic surgeon, Robert Israel, M.D., indicates that an examination of plaintiff on February 8, 2012 revealed a diagnosis of: resolved sprains of the cervical spine, thoracic spine, lumbar spine, left elbow, left wrist/hand and SP arthroscopy of the left shoulder. He opines that plaintiff has no orthopedic disability resulting from the accident. Dr. Israel concludes that the plaintiff can perform all work activities and activities of daily living without limitations.

The affirmed report of defendants' independent evaluating radiologist, Sheldon M. Feit, M.D., indicates that an MRI of the Left Shoulder taken on August 22, 2010 revealed an impression of: no evidence of rotator cuff tear or fracture, "[m]ild impingement on the supraspinatus muscle secondary to hypertrophic change at the acromioclavicular joint" and degenerative changes. He opines that the impingement on the supraspinatus muscle is degenerative. Dr. Fiet concludes that there are no abnormalities or posttraumatic injuries causally related to the injury.

Additionally, defendants established a prima facie case for the category of "90/180 days". The plaintiff's verified bill of particulars indicates that plaintiff was not confined to bed and/or home to date and plaintiff was not employed or a student at the time of the accident.

The aforementioned evidence amply satisfied defendants' initial burden of demonstrating that plaintiff did not sustain a "serious injury." Thus, the burden then shifted to plaintiff to raise a triable issue of fact that a serious injury was sustained within the meaning of the Insurance Law (see, Gaddy v. Eyler, 79 NY2d 955 [1992]). Failure to raise a triable issue of fact requires the granting of summary judgment and dismissal of the complaint (see, Licari v. Elliott, supra).

B. Plaintiff fails to raise a triable issue of fact

In opposition to the motion, plaintiff submitted: an attorney's affirmation, plaintiff's own affidavit, plaintiff's own examination before trial transcript testimony, an affirmation and sworn narrative report of plaintiff's physician, Eric L. Freeman, M.D., sworn medical records of Eric L. Freeman, M.D., an affirmation and MRI report of plaintiff's physician, Howard J. Gelber, M.D., an affirmation and sworn reports of plaintiff's physician, Robert Iadevaio, M.D., a sworn narrative report of plaintiff's physician, Jay Nathan, M.D., an affirmation and sworn narrative reports of plaintiff's physician, Andranik Khatchatrian, M.D.

Plaintiff submitted no proof of objective findings contemporaneous with the accident proving causation regarding the left shoulder injury. Plaintiff has failed to establish a causal connection between the accident and the left shoulder injury. The causal connection must ordinarily be established by competent medical proof (see, Kociocek v. Chen, 283 AD2d 554 [2d Dept 2001]; Pommels v. Perez, 4 NY3d 566 [2005]). Plaintiff failed to submit any medical proof that was contemporaneous with the accident showing any range of motion limitations of the left shoulder (Pajda v. Pedone, 303 AD2d 729 [2d Dept 2003]). The affirmation of Eric L. Freeman, M.D. who initially examined plaintiff's left shoulder on September 21, 2010, almost 2 years after the accident and the narrative report of Jay Nathan, M.D. who initially examined plaintiff's left shoulder on May 7, 2011, more than 2½ years after the accident are not contemporaneous and cannot establish causation regarding the left shoulder injury. Examinations almost 2 years after the accident and more than 2½ years after the accident are not contemporaneous and are insufficient to establish a causal connection between the accident and the injuries (see, Soho v. Konate, 85 AD3d 522 [1st Dept 2011][holding that a medical report based upon an examination five (5) months after the accident is not contemporaneous]; see also, Toulson v. Young Han Pae, 13 AD3d 317 [1st Dept 2004]; Thompson v. Abassi, 15 AD3d 95 [1st Dept 2005]).

Plaintiff failed to submit a doctor's affidavit based on a recent examination which would verify plaintiff's subjective complaints of pain and limitation regarding his cervical spine injuries (Kauderer v. Penta, 261 AD2d 265 [2d Dept 1999]). The affirmation of Dr. Freeman indicates that a recent examination conducted on October 10, 2012 revealed "normal range of motion of the cervical spine".

Also, the plaintiff has failed to come forward with sufficient evidence to create an issue of fact as to whether the plaintiff sustained a medically-determined injury which prevented him from performing substantially all of the material acts which constituted his usual and customary daily activities for not less than 90 of the 180 days immediately following the underlying accident (Savatarre v. Barnathan, 280 AD2d 537 [2d Dept 2001]). The record must contain objective or credible evidence to support the plaintiff's claim that the injury prevented plaintiff from performing substantially all of his customary activities (Watt v. Eastern Investigative Bureau, Inc., 273 AD2d 226 [2d Dept 2000]). When construing the statutory definition of a 90/180-day claim, the words "substantially all" should be construed to mean that the person has been prevented from performing her usual activities to a great extent, rather than some slight curtailment (see, Gaddy v. Eyler, 79 NY2d 955; Licari v. Elliott, 57 NY2d 230 [1982]; Berk v. Lopez, 278 AD2d 156 [1st Dept 2000], lv denied 96 NY2d 708 [2001]). Plaintiff fails to include experts' reports or affirmations which render an opinion on the effect the injuries claimed may have had on the plaintiff for the 180-day period immediately following the accident. As such, plaintiff's submissions were insufficient to establish a triable issue of fact as to whether plaintiff suffered from a medically determined injury that curtailed him from performing his usual activities for the statutory period (Licari v. Elliott, 57 NY2d 230, 236 [1982]). Accordingly, plaintiff's claim that his injuries prevented him from performing substantially all of the material acts constituting his customary daily activities during at least 90 of the first 180 days following the accident is insufficient to raise a triable issue of fact (see, Graham v. Shuttle Bay, 281 AD2d 372 [1st Dept 2001]; Hernandez v. Cerda, 271 AD2d 569 [2d Dept 2000]; Ocasio v. Henry, 276 AD2d 611 [2d Dept 2000]).

Furthermore, plaintiff's attorney's affirmation is not admissible probative evidence on medical issues, as plaintiff's attorney has failed to demonstrate personal knowledge of the plaintiff's injuries (Sloan v. Schoen, 251 AD2d 319 [2d Dept 1998]).

Moreover, plaintiff's self-serving affidavit and deposition statements are "entitled to little weight" and are insufficient to raise triable issues of fact (see, Zoldas v. Louise Cab Corp., 108 AD2d 378, 383 [1st Dept 1985]; Fisher v. Williams, 289 AD2d 288 [2d Dept 2001]).

Therefore, plaintiff's submissions are insufficient to raise a triable issue of fact (see, Zuckerman v. City of New York, 49 NY2d 557 [1980]).

Accordingly, the plaintiff's Complaint is dismissed as to all categories based upon a failure to satisfy the no-fault threshold.

The clerk is directed to enter judgment accordingly.
